Hingham High School

Class History

The United States had been at war one year when we, 116 strong, invaded the corridors of Hingham High School on September 9, 1942. The "mighty seniors" had little confidence that we would ever graduate when they saw us slink in, with our faces shiny and our new pencil cases under our arms. But during our four years we proved our worth, not only in the class rooms, but on the athletic fields and in the service of our country.

As September wore on, we held class elections and Archie Bjorklund became our president and Johnny Bacon, his able assistant. Pat Mills was elected secretary and Connie Jewett handled the finances.

Fall came, leaves were burned and the cheerleaders dusted off their two megaphones. The football season was on and all eyes turned toward the "Bronze Freshman." Art Allum, who, by his speed and fortitude, gave strength and encouragement to Hingham's eleven. We had a good season that year as we lost but one game to Abington and tied Weymouth 0-0. Yes, we had brought with us good football material.

The seniors strutted through the corridors, and we envied every nod of their cocky heads and prayed fervently, "Please, God, will we ever be seniors?" We studied town government with Mr. Scott and were exposed to Shakespeare in our English classes. Mrs. Bullock had our dramatic club doing nursery rhymes in pantomime which added to the upperclassmen's doubts as to what would become of us.

Art Allum proved himself to be an all-round athlete by making the Varsity basketball team in his freshman year. During the spring John Kain, Billy Hall, Harold Doe and George Lombardo joined the baseball squad.

When school ended in June, some of us settled down to a lazy summer while many took extended courses throughout the sweltering months under a program known as "Summer School."

The following September found us marching off to school again, but now we had lost our bewildered look and some of us had grown two full inches! Yes, we were sophomores and according to tradition, the in-coming freshmen were regarded as strange beings created in an off-moment. Danny Kimball and Frances Bonanno replaced Archie and Pat in office, while Johnny and Connie retained their positions as vice-president and treasurer. (We were still looking for a hand-out.)

"2-A" edited a newspaper in Mr. Webb's English class entitled "The Student Prints" which was baptized by the sweat and carbon smudges of its editorial staff.

Football season arrived. Landis, Keenan, Smith, Michelson and Bacon competed on the gridiron, adding power to the team and showed promise for the coming years. We scored more points than did any other South Shore team against Weymouth in 1944.

Ten of the boys answered the call to arms. Six donned the blue garb of the Navy. Harold Doe followed in his father's footsteps and joined the fightin' marines, along with Monty Ozan, who distinguished himself in the Pacific as platoon leader and expert rifleman. So the Air Corps wouldn't be slighted, George Barbour joined its ranks.

Phyllis Butler, Betty Cronin, Tilda Allegra and Ruth Nelson made the second team in field hockey but were aiming higher for the Varsity next year. Alice Balch and Robert Delorey hit their way to tennis fame.

Yearbook 1946

The following September we were juniors. Already we tilted our chins a little higher, for now we were well on our way to the top.

Letters came from our classmates in the services. They were on the offensive now, and we were very proud of the job they were doing.

Mr. Higgins took over our English instruction and introduced check sheets as receipts for our book reports, thus making it impossible for us to lend a helping hand to overworked students, less fortunate than ourselves.

The navy cry, "Hubba-hubba" echoed and re-echoed throughout the building, gaining new significance as it gathered momentum.

Our Prom was a gala affair. Ten girls were chosen by the Juniors to represent their class, in the crowning of the class queen. Connie Jewett, one of the ten, was elected queen and she reigned on a flower-bedecked throne. The other girls were her ladies-in-waiting.

The seniors graduated with high honors and we left school in June hopeful of our last year.

The day dawned bright, that September in 1945 as we sauntered into H. H. S. with our heads high and our chests out. The lower classmen gazed upon us with envious eyes and if we became conceited, please forgive us. We swarmed into 22 which was to be our haven and stopped short! Miss Fowler was no longer there as detention master and in her place was Mr. Thomas. Could he ever swing a wicked gavel!! Extra marshals were needed to direct traffic OUT of 22.

The Teen-Can re-opened under the able leadership of its new president, Frances Bonanno, and her hard-working staff.

When the class presidency changed hands, a female took over the office. (Ann Stuart really did a grand job too.) Billy Linscott became vice-president, Frances Bonanno, secretary and Edith Nickerson treasurer.

Assemblies started and the lower-classmen stood to pay respect to us. Johnny Bacon was our Student Council president and Dick Delmonico was his assistant.

A new merit board, to help students offset their demerits, was organized under the leadership of the freshman heart throb, Dick Delmonico. Somehow it was one of the most popular organizations!

"The Hingham Locomotive" was the cry which ushered the eleven on to the gridiron this year, right into a successful season in spite of a serious injury to Landis, our hard fighting backfieldman. Al Michelson inspired his team on to victory against some of our toughest opponents and the boys really loved him for it. To pick out a few "stars" would be impossible for the whole team practiced together and fought together, was defeated together, only to win more victories, together.

The hockey girls, although quiet and unassuming, deserve loud applause for their excellent sportsmanship. Again, to pick out the "stars" the whole team should be named.

Now we have concluded our "high school daze." But in reality it is only the beginning, for we are standing on the threshold of a new era. Some of us will make our voices heard above the crowd, some of us will write new chapters in the history of our country already stained with the sweat of our forefathers, the blood of our grandfathers and the tears of our fathers. The rest of us will strive with all our might to make you proud of us, Hingham High School.

Class Will

ROSLYN COHEN

On this last day of our supremacy, we, the mighty class of 1946 of the Hingham High School, being of more or less sound mind and body (mostly less), and fully aware of sacrifices, do bequeath this our last will and testament to the faculty and under graduates of said institution, hereby revoking any and all wills, made by us;

- 1st: To the juniors, we leave our places at the front of the assembly hall.
- 2nd: To the sophomores, we leave the papers, books, pencils, and notebooks, so, in case of fire, there will be a blaze worth watching.
- 3rd: To the freshmen, we leave the will to go on without retreat.
- 4th: Johnny Bacon and Larry Keenan leave their "Buddy-Buddy" tactics to Scotty and Mickey.
- 5th: Wally leaves her ability to "hang on" to the soda jerks to Peggy Abbey.
- 6th: John Anderson leaves his mathematical ability to Lloyd Caplan.
- 7th: Dick Delmonico leaves his freshman admirers to the deserving "frosh" boys. "Here's your chance, fellas."
- 8th: "Butts" Kimball leaves his will to expand to "Gabba."
- 9th: Alice Balch leaves her "artistic" cartoons to "Gerry."
- 10th: Win Hill leaves his inspiration to study to Bill Bates.
- 11th: Oscar Beck leaves his spontaneous humor to Herb Lawton.
- 12th: Natalie Grigg leaves her nickname to Helen Day.
- 13th: Al Michelson leaves his athletic abilities to his brother, Charlie.
- 14th: Bob Waugh leaves his capability to pester teachers to Bud.
- 15th: Archie Bjorklund leaves his credit at Donovan Drug to Gerry Gorman.
- 16th: Ann Stuart leaves her ability to lead to John Scott.
- 17th: Connie Jewett leaves her ability to hit high "B" flat to Janie Montgomery.
- 18th: Bob Gillen leaves his art of fixing radios to anyone with enough technical knowledge!!!
- 19th: Pat Mills leaves her freckles to anyone who wants them.
- 20th: "Bobby" Kenary leaves her shy smiles to Ann Rogers.
- 21st: Ginny Burrell leaves her drum-majorette boots to anyone capable of filling them.
- 22nd: Charlie Smith leaves his driving ability to knock down telephone poles to "Red" Newcombe.
- 23rd: "Butch" Boss leaves her collection of U. S. M. C. pins to Madeline Gould.
- 24th: Francis Charles leaves his bashfulness(??) to Bob MacCarthy.
- 25th: Bill Stone leaves his ability to argue his way out of a situation to anyone who dares to try it.
- 26th: Tillie Allegra leaves her infectious giggle to Judy Brooks.
- 27th: Patti Byrne and Jimmy Gallo leave their smooth dancing to Lillian Paulsen and Bobby Buckler.
- 28th: We, of Chemistry 4-A, leave to Mr. Osterman, our appreciation and thanks for his chats, snacks, facts and CRACKS!!!

Class Poem

"Yours is the earth and all that's in it,"
Kipling wrote long years ago;
Today, we realize his meaning,
As out into the world we go.

We've walked the halls of Hingham High,
And we have learned our lessons here.
A door, by the years unfastened,
Swings wide to all our visions clear.

As now we don our shining armor,
We leave our sports, our studies, too,
To enter into wider spheres,
That summon the brave and the true.

For each must play his role alone,
Each in his own constructive way;
May ideals formed at Alma Mater,
Guide and lead us every day.

We promise not to lack in courage,
And to ourselves we shall be true.
We'll hold the faith you gave to us,
As a flaming torch with brilliant hue.

We shall take our places in the world,
With the great and those of power;
Most will play a minor role,
Some above all men will tower.

So, with keen joy and a singing heart,
We now advance to a bright, new day.
We feel the grip of your fine strong hands,
Your wishes speed us on our way.

Now ours is all the world to conquer,
May the grace of God enlighten our eyes,
And may the Class of '46,
Be blazoned in gold across the skies.

The Merit Board

The Merit Board is a new organization this year. Its purpose is to make possible the offsetting of the pupils' demerits by earning an equal number of merits through work for the janitor, the lunchroom, or the teachers, through detention, or through a time-period free from demerits. The Merit Board, meeting weekly, consider each pupil's case, keeps all the records for the procedure, and keeps the school office informed of the merits earned. The Board consists of the vice-president of the Student Council, acting as chairman, and one member chosen from each of the four classes.
